Three Kincaid brothers came to Texas before 1890. Jim settled in Tom Green County and Drew settled in Palo Pinto County and was an early day Texas Ranger. They raised their families in those counties and no further information on them. John Joseph, was born April 29, 1855 in Fannin County, Georgia, and settled in Coleman County.

Louisa Emaline Slate was born October 16, 1871 at Jobe Township, Oregon County, Missouri, and came to Texas about 1887. Emaline and two younger brothers, Ben and Henry, also born there, rode the train to Abilene (end of line) and were met there by some of their family in a wagon and team who lived at old Atoka. They were an older half brother, Enoch Lewis Slate, and two older half sisters, Polly (Slate) Murrill and Sarah E. (Slate) Moore.

John Joseph worked for a stage line that ran between Atoka and old Fort Concho. John and Emaline were married June 26, 1890 in San Angelo. (John J. died September 1, 1931, Louisa Emaline, March 23, 1947, both buried at Atoka.) Emaline cooked for the men working on the stage line after her marriage. Their first two children were born in San Angelo, the next three at Atoka and the two youngest at Glen Cove. They are:
